Professor Dr Iris Lorscheid

Vice-Rector Research and Professor of Digital Business and Data Science

Computer scientist Iris Lorscheid has been teaching at UE since 2019 and is an expert in the field of data science and agent-based simulation with a focus on social systems analysis and data-based theory development.

She is a board member of the European Social Simulation Association and a member of the scientific advisory board for the Artificial Intelligence for Assessment project funded by the Volkswagen Foundation. In addition, Iris Lorscheid is an editorial board member of the Journal of Artificial Societies and Social Simulation and a reviewer in several established international journals.

His topics:

- Next Level AI - Can humans actually learn from machines?

- What are the benefits and dangers of dark data?

Iris Lorscheid in Media:

Die unheimliche Macht der dunklen Daten - Tagesspiegel Background

Dark Data - Schatz und Risiko: Warum wir über ungenutzte Daten sprechen müssen - FOCUS Online

UE University of Europe for Applied Sciences